

Prof. Michal Gal is Co-Director of the Forum on Law and Markets at the Faculty of Law, Haifa University, Israel. She was a Visiting Professor at NYU (2006, 2007), Georgetown (2008), University of Melbourne (2009), Universidade Católica Portuguesa (2009) and Singapore University (2010).

Dr. Gal received her LL.B. from Tel Aviv University, magna cum laude, and clerked in the Israeli Supreme Court. She received her LL.M. and J.S.D. from the University of Toronto. Both theses won the Alan Marks Medal for best thesis. While writing her doctorate, she was a visiting scholar at Columbia University (1997-9) and at NYU, where she also served as Associate Director of the NYU Advanced Certificate Program in Law and Business (2000-1).

Prof. Gal's research focuses on competition law and policy. She is the author of the book Competition Policy for Small Market Economies (Harvard University Press, 2003) and co-editor of The Law and Economics of Israeli Competition Law (Nevo, 2007). She also published many scholarly articles on competition law issues and gave talks and presented papers in numerous conferences and colloquiums around the world.

Prof. Gal served as a consultant to several international organizations (including OECD, UNCTAD) on issues of competition law in small and developing economies and is a non-governmental advisor of the ICN since its inception. She also advised several small economies on the framing of their competition laws. In addition, she is an advisory board member of the Consumer Antitrust Institute (Chicago), the American Antitrust Institute (AAI), an executive board member of the Academic Society for Competition Law (ASCOLA), and serves as an academic partner of the Asian Competition Law and Economics Center (ACLEC).

Prof. Gal has won grants and prizes for her research, including the Zeltner award for young researcher in 2004 and the GIF for young scientist, 2006. She has also won several teaching awards. She was chosen by Globes (a leading Israeli business newspaper) as one of 10 most promising young legal scholars in Israel.
