

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Alastair Mordaunt

Alastair joined the Office of Fair Trading as Director of Mergers in October 2007. His role includes the day-to-day responsibility for delivery of the OFT's merger case load, management of the mergers branch and, together with the Senior Director, management and development within the wider OFT, and also representing the OFT externally.

Prior to joining the OFT, Alastair worked in the private sector, representing clients in complex merger and antitrust matters before the UK, EC and US antitrust authorities. He was a senior associate in the London office of Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer, having also worked in the firm's Brussels and Washington DC offices.

Alastair was educated at St Edmund Hall, Oxford University, Nottingham University and BPP law school.
